

Combat Logistics Regiment 2

The Strength and Honor Regiment

VISION

CLR-2 will function as a direct support tactical logistics regiment comprised of dedicated Marines and Sailors who uphold our legacy of professionalism, are easy to work with, highly sought after, mission oriented, skilled and confident logisticians. The Marines of 2d MARDIV rely on us to provide them with support on time every time. As such, we shall maintain a mindset of an operational unit that employs multi-modal logistics.

TEAM MINDSET: As iron sharpens iron, so one person sharpens another... The Marine Corps is fundamentally a team endeavor and tactical logistics is the ultimate team event. Our MEF, DIV, and MLG Commanders asks us to embrace a warrior's mindset and a team approach. Leaders at all levels must inculcate this as we seek to prepare for the operational environment and warfighting.

STRENGTH: Is about readiness. Everything we do should be focused towards improving our strength as an organization. This includes basic prescribed tasks such as: annual training, physical training, equipment readiness, medical/dental and PME along with strict adherence to standards and our Core Values. These attributes add to our strength and resiliency as part of a premier fighting force.

HONOR: Is about our behavior, our ethos, and the way we treat each other, the way we go about our daily routine. We should strive to live up to the Marines Hymn vowing to "Keep our Honor Clean". Moral injuries often times take longer to heal than physical injuries. Equally, they are a scourge on any unit, threaten cohesion, and will tear at the fabric of good morale. I challenge all Marines and Sailors at all levels to strive for excellence in doing things the right way, the honorable way. Adherence to our Core Values is what will set us apart on the battlefield ultimately making us a stronger team. Our nation desires this, our Corps demands it.

Joseph M. Garaux

JOSEPH M. GARAUX
Colonel, U.S. Marine Corps
Commanding Officer, Combat Logistics Regiment 2